WOULD YOUR TIRES STOP YOU IN TIME? » » »

Skidding—cause of 5½ times more accidents than blowouts—becomes more dangerous as winter approaches. For quickest stops buy "G-3" Goodyears—proved safest by 8,400 tests.

When you must suddenly jam on your brakes, averting an accident often is a matter of inches. Well, stop tests on slippery pavement show: on smooth tires you slide 77% farther, on other new tires you slide 14% to 19% farther than on new "G-3" Goodyear All-Weathers. That's the Goodyear Margin of Safety—a big reason why more people buy Goodyears than any other tire. Since it costs you nothing extra, why not have this margin of safety on your car too?

OBITUARY

"As the shades of evening were ...ding on last Wednesday, Septem... 26, the spirit of Mrs. Geneva ...kson Lewis Harvey winged its ...ay into the Great Beyond to find ...s eternal resting place in the "house not made with hands." Truly ...heaven is richer and earth is poor... because of her going. They can say with the sorrow ...ful poet, "I prosper, and like her ...niece, I have thee still and I re...joice."

"Words are futile, vain and inadequate when we attempt by means of them to express the influence of the beautiful life of this godly woman— life as beautiful as any of the lovely flowers, myriads of which decked her grave. Like her Master she went about doing good.' Here was a life of sympathy and love, here was a spirit of altruism and here was a life of unselfishness. The words of Christ: 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me.' She was cosmopolitan in her sympathies, being a 'friend to the beggar and a brother to the prince. The poor and needy were never turned away from her door, the sick were never neglect-d, the distressed were ever given a word of comfort and cheer. She never missed an opportunity to do some thing for some one else. Her prayer was ever for others. Her hands were always busy ministering with love and devotion to the many who came within the circle of her friends and acquaintances. She was a

...different from the dinner sort— and some cheerful chins, which are not necessarily expensive china, but the kind that children enjoy eating from. You have flowers on the table, just as if you were serving Daddy at dinnertime, and you have some interesting things to talk about so that the moments fly merrily along until time to dash back to school. Or if there is a good school lunch-room, you no doubt see that Johnnie gets to eat there often. It is his club. The other fellows eat there— there's lots to talk over: the food is dietetically right and it tastes good because it's a change from home food.

Pack-and-Carry Lunch

But for the child who must eat his lunch to school, we want to make these suggestions which we hope will prove helpful:

First, plan the lunch so that it will be interesting and appetizing in appearance. Include foods which vary in shape, color, flavor and texture. An example of this would be two generous-sized sandwiches wrapped each separately in waxed paper—one red salmon and lettuce on white bread cut in triangles, and the other a cream cheese and pimiento sandwich on whole wheat bread, cut with a circular cookie cutter; a low jar with a lid containing a fruit salad— fresh pineapple, canned pitted cherries and orange slices; a thermos containing a cold malted milk drink, which can be shaken again before drinking, with straws included; and some gay colored cellophane wrapped cookies or tiny frosted cup cakes.

Second, vary the lunches so that no two days in the week are duplicates in any food on the school-boz menu. The way to do this is to make out the weekly menu on Saturday before you send in your grocery order. Or better, still, go into the grocery store on Saturday and look around. You will find all sorts of new and intriguing foods for children—new cookies in tins to keep them fresh, new sandwich spreads in cans, new canned fruit juices, a variety of chocolate malted drinks, and new accessories such as paper napkins, waxed papers, etc., to make the lunch box neat and attractive.

Here are two suggestions for dietetic, delicious lunch-box menus:

Salmon or Tuna Fish Sandwich
Lettuce and Cream Cheese Sandwich
Chocolate Blanc Mange
Dates or Figs
Milk

Deviled Ham Sandwich
Bacon and Tomato Sandwich
Chocolate Milk Shake
Baked Custard Apple

Important Meeting Here On Thursday Oct. 18th.

Lynchburg Chamber of Commerce Heads Attendance Committee For Meeting

On Thursday, October 18, at the high school auditorium, one of the most important meetings held here in recent years will take place as leading citizens of Virginia gather to join with Appomattox people in forming an Appomattox Memorial Association.

The purpose of the meeting will be to set up an organization to promote and seek to effect the establishment of a national military park at the famous Surrender Area here and possibly secure the reservation of the old court house village marking the end of the Civil War in April, 1865.

The Lynchburg Chamber of Commerce, under the leadership of Bob Ramsey, is heading the attendance committee for the day, and many notables will be brought here. Congressman P. H. Drewry, of Petersburg is expected, as well as representatives from the department of the interior at Washington. Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, of Richmond is being sought as the feature. The full list of speakers and notables expected will be announced next week.

J. A. Burke heads the commitee on resolutions to be presented and Calvin H. Robinson is chairman of the committee on local arrangements. Col. J. W. Flood and Miss M. Anna Jones are also taking an active part in shaping plans for the organization.

Through the years many efforts have been made to secure adequate memorialization at one of Virginia's greatest but most neglected shrines. Many yindividuals and organizations have done yeoman work to bring about some national recognition of the Surrender Grounds at Appomattox, but yet, no actual success has come of these efforts. It is now concluded that one active unit organization must direct these efforts, aimed principally 'at congressional action. The wholehearted support of local people in bringing about the success of the move is expected.

Won Prizes

Robert C. Wagner, of Appomattox romped away with high honors at the Lynchburg fair last week. He captured no less than six first places and five second places. The firsts were for his entries of: Turley winesaps, collection of fall apples, Grimes' golden, Rome beauty, Jonathan and Baldwin apples.

Mr. Wagner is one of the best fruit growers in this section.

Play Was A Success

Miss Dorothy Ould Winner In The Baby Contest Of Play

The play, "Miss Black Eyed Susan" staged here at the high school auditorium Tuesday night, by the Wayne P. Sewell Producing Co., of Atlanta, and sponsored by the building fund of the Memorial Methodist church, was a pronounced success. An appreciative audience greatly enjoyed the performance.

The baby contest, conducted through four days prior to the play, created considerable interest among Appomattox people. Miss Dorothy Ould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Ould was seated on the throne as the curtain rose, and was crowned queen of the contest, having received 4,190 votes. She was sponsored by Miss Alice Lee Smith, who stood by her throne on the stage. Both were presented with money prizes.

The sum of $108 was brought in by the sixteen girls, each sponsoring a child not over six years of age. Each vote cost 1c.

The coach, Miss Louise Godwin, left Wednesday for Haines City, Florida, where the same play will be presented.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Murphy attended a reunion Sunday at the home of his brother.

Miss Arlene Canada spent yesterday with Mrs. R. F. B. Steele.

"My wife has a genius for cooking."

"Mine had one too, but she only stayed a few weeks."

School Lunches That Ring the Bell

SUPPOSE mothers were graded on their school lunch boxes— would you have made all A's last term? Would you have been promoted into a higher grade? Well, it's a new term, and like Johnny who is starting out with his new necktie and his new lunch-box, we have a chance to begin all over again.

If it's true, as tiresome teachers used to tell us, that we never get through learning and we go to school all through life, certainly dietetics is a course which mothers must specialize in from the time youngsters begin to eat until the time they begin to eat away from home. But it's not as easy as mere dietetics. They must major in dietetics and minor in psychology. For not only must the child be offered the correct foods for body building, but he must be led to like these correct foods. And that's not so easy.

Hot Lunch Preferable

For children who come home for lunch or buy a warm lunch in the school lunchroom—and these are the best conditions for the noonday meal—the problem is simpler. For, at home, you have already worked out a way to make the proper foods most attractive and the atmosphere conducive to enjoying the meal. You no doubt have some gay little lunch-cloths

Spout Spring

Spout Spring, Oct. 3.- Mrs. A. S. Steele and daughter returned to Roanoke Wednesday after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dickerson.

Treasure Hunting

LEGENDS tell us there's gold hidden away in unexpected places. Perhaps it's up the airy mountains, or maybe it's down the rushing glen where little men of the mountains haul it out to play at skip-stones with, on magic moonlit nights.

Let's look for gold in unexpected places. Did you ever think how many golden foods with a wealth of health treasure are hidden away on grocer's shelves? Do you eat plentifully of golden apricots, peaches and pineapple that contain untold mineral wealth? And do you eat golden yellow yams—priceless to the housewife in their convenient canned form but quite inexpensive?

Bury These Treasures

Hide away some golden apricots in the following delicious dishes, and see what an adventure the family will have discovering gold for themselves. The recipes serve eight persons.

Dinner and Gold Salad: Drain apricots from a No. 2 can and have them very cold. Chill, also, two cups of bouillon cubes in cubes. Arrange on individual beds of crisp lettuce. Pour over French dressing.

Apricot and Orge Cocktail: Cut apricots, from a No. 2 can, in quarters. Arrange them with a few grapes in cocktail glasses. Mix the juice of one and one-half lemons with the apricot syrup and pour over. Chill thoroughly.

Apricot Custard: Heat four eggs slightly, add three tablespoons sugar, and one and one-half tablespoons flour mixed with a few grains of salt. Add one and one-half cups of scalded milk and the contents of one No. 2 can of apricots pressed through a sieve and then heated to boiling. Pour into individual custard cups, place in hot water and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees—until firm, or for about forty-five minutes. Serve cold from the cups.

First Hunt To Take Place Tuesday Morning and Will Continue Through Friday

Red Tom Missing?

Will Also Have Bench Show And Horn Blowing Contest And Dance

For the fourth year in succession the Piedmont Fox Hunters Association will come to Appomattox for annual field trials and bench shows arriving here next Monday, October 8.

Rumor has it that "Red Tom," celebrated local fox, more elusive through the years than the corner prosperity is around, hasn't been seen out this season, but there are plenty of foxes awaiting the best efforts of the eighty five hounds expected.

The first hunt will take place on Tuesday morning, oh, around sunrise if you get up at that hour. That will be a derby race, and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday "dawnings" there will be all age stakes. Reports are that most of the hunts will be staged in the Spout Spring vicinity, where fox are usually plentiful.

Other features of the event will be the bench show, a horn blowing contest and a dance in honor of the visiting sportsmen.

The annuan visit of the fox hunters is a highlight of the social and outdoor season here and Appomattox will unite to bid them jolly welcome and renew the standing invitation to make Appomattox the permanent scene of the annual hunt.

Plan Election

As we go to press a committee, headed by former state senator Earham, Jr., of Charlotte, is here conferring with local county Democratic Committee, pertaining to the election on November 6, when Virginia will name a United States senator and congressmen.

Despite the quitness of the campaign, senator Harry Flood Byrd has no less than five opponents and an effort will be made to get out a fine vote of approval for him.

This will also mark the first time Appomattox people have had the opportunity to cast a vote for Hon. F. H. Drewry for congress, this county having been changed to his district since the last election.

Mr. and Mrs. John Staples, of Victoria spent last week with her father, C. W. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Perrow, of Sherwill spent Sunday with her father, R. L. Moore here.
